Summary Report on Environmental Day 2025

Date: June 05, 2025

Event: World Environmental Day 2025

Astha School of Management celebrated World Environment Day on 5th June 2025 with great enthusiasm and active participation from students, faculty members, and staff. The celebration aimed to spread awareness about environmental protection, sustainable living, and the collective responsibility of preserving nature for future generations. The entire campus reflected the spirit of environmental consciousness through various meaningful activities and initiatives organized throughout the day.

The program commenced with an inaugural session where the Principal addressed the gathering and highlighted the significance of World Environment Day. The speech emphasized the urgent need to combat environmental challenges such as pollution, deforestation, climate change, and waste mismanagement. Students were encouraged to adopt eco-friendly habits in their daily lives and become responsible citizens who contribute positively to the environment.

A series of engaging activities were organized to involve students creatively and intellectually. These included poster-making competitions, slogan writing, essay writing, and quiz competitions focused on environmental themes. The students showcased remarkable creativity and awareness through their artworks and presentations, delivering strong messages about conservation of water, reduction of plastic usage, and the importance of greenery. The competitions not only enhanced students' knowledge but also motivated them to think critically about real-world environmental issues.

One of the major highlights of the celebration was the plantation drive conducted within and around the campus. Students and faculty members planted saplings of various trees and flowering plants, symbolizing growth, responsibility, and hope for a greener future. The initiative aimed to instill a sense of ownership among students towards nurturing the plants and maintaining a clean and green campus environment.

In addition, an awareness rally was organized where students carried placards and raised slogans promoting environmental protection and sustainability. The rally successfully conveyed messages about reducing carbon footprints, conserving natural resources, and maintaining cleanliness in public spaces. The enthusiasm and energy displayed by the participants reflected their commitment to environmental well-being.

Workshops and short seminars were also conducted to educate students about practical steps such as waste segregation, recycling methods, energy conservation, and sustainable lifestyle practices. Faculty members and invited speakers shared valuable insights on global environmental concerns and the role of youth in driving positive change.

The celebration concluded with a vote of thanks, acknowledging the efforts of the organizing committee, participants, and volunteers who made the event successful. Overall, the World Environment Day celebration at Astha School of Management was highly impactful and inspiring. It successfully fostered awareness, responsibility, and a sense of unity among students toward protecting the environment and promoting sustainable development.

The event served as a reminder that small actions, when performed collectively, can lead to significant positive change for the planet.

Event: Black Day 2025

Astha School of Management solemnly observed Black Day on 14th February 2025 within its campus to honor and remember the brave soldiers who sacrificed their lives in the Pulwama attack. The objective of the observation was to pay heartfelt tribute to the martyrs, spread awareness among students about national security, and instill a deep sense of patriotism, unity, and respect for the armed forces.

The program witnessed active participation from students, faculty members, and administrative staff, making it a respectful and emotionally significant event. The observance began with the gathering of participants in the seminar hall, where the atmosphere was maintained with dignity and silence as a mark of respect. A two-minute silence was observed in memory of the departed heroes, symbolizing gratitude and collective mourning.

Several students came forward to deliver speeches and short presentations highlighting the importance of national integrity, the courage of the armed forces, and the need for citizens to remain united against terrorism and violence. Faculty members also addressed the audience, emphasizing the values of responsibility, discipline, and respect towards the nation. Their words inspired students to understand the sacrifices made by soldiers and the significance of peace and harmony in society.

A candle-lighting ceremony was organized where students and teachers lit candles as a symbol of remembrance and hope. The campus was decorated with posters, placards, and banners prepared by students carrying messages of patriotism, unity, and tribute to the martyrs. These creative displays reflected the emotional involvement and sincere respect of the student community.

In addition, a brief documentary and visual presentation showcasing the bravery and dedication of Indian soldiers was shown, which deeply moved the audience and strengthened their sense of national pride. The event also encouraged discussions among students regarding civic responsibility and the role of youth in nation-building.

The program concluded with a pledge of unity and commitment where all participants vowed to uphold the values of peace, respect, and national integrity. The Black Day observance proved to be a meaningful and impactful initiative that successfully created awareness, emotional connection, and patriotic spirit among the students and staff of Astha School of Management.

Overall, the event was conducted with great sincerity and discipline, leaving a lasting impression on everyone present and reinforcing the importance of remembering and honoring the sacrifices of the nation's heroes.
